SEVEN MEN ARE KILLED BY EXPLOSION IN MINE NO. 37.

Overcharge of Dynamite Is Put Off in Slope of Berwind White Company's Mine Near Windber.

BLACK DAMP CAUSES DEATH

There Were Only Ten Men in the Mine at the Time and All But Three Are Killed—Were 500 Feet Away From Point of Blast.

Special to The Courier.

JOHNSTOWN, April 10.—Seven men were killed and three slightly injured as the result of an overcharged blast in Mine No. 37 of the Berwind-White Company near Windber. There were but 10 men in the mine at the time and they were fully 500 feet away from the point of the explosion. The shock of the blast, which was made with nearly 150 sticks of dynamite, stunned them for an instant and before they could recover the deadly fumes of black damp overcame seven of the party, who died a painless death. The other three, all foreigners, were quickly rescued and rushed to the Windber hospital. They will be discharged today.

Michael Gibson, aged 38, Mine 37. William Gibson, aged 38, Mine 37. Arthur Custer, aged 38, Mine 37. Walter Gibson, aged 38, Mine 37. Let Gibson, aged 38, Mine 37. Metro Katschinski, aged 24, Mine 37. Paul Myer, aged 24, Mine 37. The company planned opening a new air shaft in the mine and as yesterday was Good Friday there was a holiday. No men were at work but Superintendent D. A. Thomas got a party of 10 men together to blast through the rock and debris in order that the shaft might be hauled out by the men who would go on this morning.

It was 5:15 that the men completed their blast and were making their way out of the mine when the explosion was fired. The men were thought to have come a safe distance from the point of the explosion, but the rumble and roar of the giant powder soon volumes of smoke out of the slope opening before the men had reached the surface.

Superintendent Thomas immediately organized a rescue party and brought three foreigners to the surface before the mine had been entirely cleared. These were the three men who were but slightly injured. Then the work of getting the others out was resumed. By three o'clock this morning the last of the ill-fated seven was brought to the surface but all were dead.

The explosion did but little damage to the mine except at the point this blast was fired.

EIGHT ARE INJURED IN SEABOARD WRECK

Believed That An Effort Was Made to Wreck Train to Rob Passengers' Board It.

United Press Telegram.

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 10.—Eight persons were badly hurt today when the Seaboard Air Line's New York and Florida Limited crashed through an open switch at Hicks Station, 42 miles south of Columbia today.

It is alleged by the officials of the road that the wreck was caused by unknown parties tampering with the switch and the detectives are working on the case to determine the robbery of passengers was the motive.

The switch lock had been broken and a wad of newspapers had been wedged and jammed into the switch fork to insure a wreck.

The engine, baggage car and smoker left the rails but the Pullmans did not overturn. All traffic on the Seaboard in blocked and the road is using the Southern to get around the wreck.

The works had been idle since the month of December.

Going After Meyers.

JOHNSTOWN, April 10.—County Detective Sam Crouse of Somerset left here today for Lewistown to get Milton Meyers, who is being held at that point. ### FEW HOURS TO LIVE.

Governor Geo. L. Lilley Is Near Death's Door.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 10.—(Special.)—Governor George L. Lilley is hovering between life and death at his home, and has but a few hours to live, according to a statement issued today.

PROHIBITS USE OF ALL BLACK POWDER

Order Issued by John L. Loring, Chief of the Department of Mines, West Virginia Announced.

Officials of the coal companies operating in the Dockers valley, West Virginia, have received an order from John L. Loring, Chief of the Department of Mines, prohibiting the use of black powder, the order taking effect this month. The chief also prohibits "sand" blasting, to which he attributes the recent explosion in the Beho mine in the southern part of the State.

In the order Chief Loring calls for the use of the so-called "safety" powder, but he does not recommend any particular powder. The safety powder, which is so called, the Governor's order says, is the only powder that is safe to use throughout the valley, although this practice has almost entirely ceased.

SUSPECTED OF MURDER AND HELD ON CHARGE

Somerset Authorities Think They Have Perpetrated a Series of Crimes.

SOMERSET, April 10.—Officers at Lewistown today arrested Milton Myers and are holding him there awaiting the arrival of Somerset county authorities, who want the man in connection with the murder, last Wednesday, of Frank F. Wingard of Stateville, near here.

Wingard, a former justice of peace, was murdered in a room, over his general store near the Riddling mine, and the same day Myers, who had been a boarder of Wingard and his wife separated, moved his household goods to Lewistown. In the room where Wingard was killed, an account book was found, opened to a page on which Myers' accounts were entered.

Thomas Yeoman of Raineytown was brought here today and is being held in jail as a witness.

"POOR OLD JACK" GOING TO HOME

Jack Hahn Gives His Promise to Burgess to Leave Connellville Next Week.

Jack Hahn made his first appearance before Burgess Evans this morning and was discharged on a promise that he will leave next week for the Soldiers' Home at Dayton, O. Jack's papers for admittance to the Home were made out by the late Captain J. M. Dushane just prior to his death but Jack has been a long time getting started.

His usual plea for leniency was made and it was successful only because the Burgess saw visions of the community freed from Jack's piteous features. Jack protested that he locked himself up by Officer John A. Lowe said he had brought the old veteran down to the bastille himself.

Martin Granchell of Leisenring, No. 8 admitted drinking too much beer but had no money. He hasn't worked a day since last December and reluctantly took the 48 hour sentence Burgess Evans gave him.

A VERY STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE

E. L. Edwards of Jeannette, Last Seen at Morgantown, West Virginia.

UNIONTOWN, April 10.—Two brothers of E. L. Edwards, of Jeannette, were here trying to find a trace of their brother, who has been missing for over a month with no clue to his whereabouts. They said that he was on a visit to his sons in Morgantown and that the son went with him to the station and saw him get on the eight o'clock train for Uniontown, where he was going to stop off. Then he intended to stop off at Connellville a few hours to see a cousin, and then take the train to Jeannette so, as to arrive before dark. The last seen of E. L. Edwards, however, was by his son on the train at Morgantown. Neither the conductor nor brakemen remember the man and cannot say where he got off the train. He did not come to Uniontown, neither did he visit the relatives in Connellville. So far he has disappeared completely without a single trace. The chief of police here was notified at the time but could find no starting point. Mr. Edwards had only a small amount of money with him; was not sick or of weakened mind, and it is a most remarkable puzzle as to his disappearance.

Paul Piny was of course suspected, but a man who was found dead at Hopwood a few days ago, the brothers came up to see if it was the body of their brother, but found it was the remains of a foreigner. Mr. Edwards was, or is a man 60 years old, gray hair, and mustache, and about 5 feet 7 inches tall. Meanwhile his wife is distracted with the distressing uncertainty.

As soon as it was officially disclosed that it was the tariff bill he had brought over, Senator Aldrich at once made a motion that it be referred to the Finance Committee, which was done.

CROW DELIVERS ADDRESS

Gives a General Talk Which Was Appreciated by All Present and Was Generally Commended—Squire Miller Toastmaster.

Pritchard's hall was the scene of a large and jolly gathering last evening when veterans of the civil and Spanish American wars assembled to celebrate Appomattox Day. With appropriate exercises, dinner, and the spacious hall look more beautiful with its festive decorations of red, white and blue bunting, and the artistic arrangements of large American flags. Patriotic music was rendered throughout the evening and all present enjoyed the affair as one of the finest ever given by the veterans. The committee in charge deserve great credit for the excellent manner in which all the details were carried out.

Promptly at 7:30 o'clock about 55 guests assembled around several tables arranged in the banquet hall. At each place were small flags as souvenirs. The menu consisted of all the delicacies of the season and was served in a most excellent style. After spending an hour or more around the festive board, Squire Frank Miller, toastmaster of the evening, entertained the veterans and their guests with a short talk in which he related many reminiscences of the war.

REGULAR GAME.

Both Sides Made Same Scores in Duck Pin Contest.

A peculiar game of duck pins was rolled on the Temple alleys when the Masons of Connellville and Uniontown tied in three games. The similarity of the scores of two of the games was remarkable. The first game was won by Uniontown, 47 to 39, while the third was won by Connellville by exactly the same score. The second game was a tie, each team rolling 128. The grand total was a tie, 1,284.

Uniontown went home under the impression it had won by one pin but when the scores were counted up accurately, both sides had the same total.

STRIKE NOW FEARED.

Hard Coal Mining Outlook Is Now In Serious Condition.

NEW YORK, April 10.—(Special.)—Believing that there is now absolutely no chance for hard coal mining continuing and feeling that a break between the miners and operators at Philadelphia is assured, all dealers here today announced that they would indefinitely fill orders for the product from regular customers.

It will be determined today by the operators if they will reopen the mines next week, following the Easter holidays and complete a statement prepared by those concerned.

INTEREST ON INCREASE AMONG GUARDSMEN

Better Attendance Is Noted Among Company D Men and the Outlook Is Brighter.

The members of Company D are beginning to take added interest in National Guard affairs, especially with the approach of open weather. A number of matters are being taken up and there is exceptional activity among the guardsmen. The members of the company are interested in the bill which General Huylburg has before the State Legislature providing for payment of guardsmen for each drill they attend. Officers of the company are especially interested because this will insure better attendance. A number of the company members live out of town and this has the effect of reducing the attendance.

The rifle range will be opened on May 1 and will remain open until the first of October. The company is putting in a new automatic target, which will improve the conditions of the range. The company expects to send a crack team of marksmen to the regimental shoot in Pittsburg in June.

Monday evening the company will give a dance in the Armory and indicate that it will be of the most successful of the many pleasant entertainments given by the organization. Thursday evening a smoker will be held at which time veterans of the Civil and Spanish American wars will be guests.

Single are being made to recruit the company to its full strength for the summer at Somerset in July. The company is nearly up to the mark but is still below the full standard.

The company is interested in the production of Pinatone, which is given under its auspices next week. The money made from Pinatone will be devoted towards supply extra food at Somerset. The company figures this will be a big expense this summer as a number of Connellville people will be entertained at Company D's mess tent.

JUDGE FEELS DELICACY ABOUT HEARING CASE

Withdraws After Three Days And Temperance, People Are Indignant.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., April 10.—After three days had been consumed in the testimony of over 150 witnesses for and against the Waynesburg Brewery Company in liquor license court here Judge James Ingraham yesterday decided he could not properly pass on the case, because he had been a director of the defendant Farmers & Drivers National Bank and the bank had owned 20 shares of stock in the brewery.

Judge Ingraham says he will call Judge J. Van Swearingen, of Fayette county, to try the case over again. Indignation is expressed by temperance advocates. Highly witnesses testified on each side, and at the beginning of the case of James L. Tans, on the stand, told Judge Ingraham's connection with the brewery through the closed Farmers & Drivers bank.

Temperance workers say that now, after they have spent all their money and shown their hand, they have little hope of winning against the brewery.

Files Suit Against B. & O.

United States District Attorney John W. Dunkle yesterday filed suit in the United States circuit court yesterday against the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company for violations of the Government safety appliance act. Judgment to the amount of $2,200 is asked for 23 distinct alleged violations in not having in use the required airbrakes on certain trains near the Sand Bar tunnel. It is alleged that portions of the train were operated by handbrakes, when the air should have been coupled up and in use. The act of Congress places a fine of $100 on each violation.

DELIGHTFUL EVENT.

"From Death To Life" Presented at Dawson Last Night.

A delightful musical event of Dawson was an "Easter cantata," "From Death to Life," presented last evening in the Methodist Episcopal Church under the direction of J. L. Rodgwick. The audience was a large and appreciative one and the work of a chorus of 20 voices was excellent. The different voices blended in perfect harmony. Bulow of Perryopolis spoke on "Teacher Training" and "Adult Classes." Rev. Bulow showed in many instances where young men had been brought into the church through the Adult Bible Class.

WEST SIDE WANTS TO BE CLEANLY, 'TIS SAID

Health Officer Allen Hyatt Is Greatly Pleased With His Reception Over There.

Health Officer Allen Hyatt is much elated over the reception he has received on the West Side since the towns were consolidated and predicts that the people over there will have the cleanest community in this section.

According to Hyatt the people there have been tried with an ambition to put things in a sanitary condition and are co-operating with the Health Officer at every step. Already an improvement is noticed and the old habit of throwing tin cans and waste paper into streets and alleys is fast disappearing.

Mr. Hyatt expects to have that side of the river's first cleanup completed within a week or two. He is spending most of his time over there and is seeing results.

CENTRAL TRADES UNION OPPOSES JUDGE UMBEL

Alleges That He Is Unfair to Laboring Men and Passes Resolution.

There was a stirring meeting of the Central Trades and Labor Council last night and among other things the members went on record as opposing the candidacy of Judge R. E. Umbel for reelection. The members will also oppose his efforts to secure the nomination at the hands of the Democratic party.

Labor decisions of the Judge affecting the steel workers and the telephone linemen are said to be the principal reasons for opposing Judge Umbel's candidacy.

In addition to other matters the Council elected J. L. Quinn and Harry Cypher as delegates to the International Peace Conference to be held in Chicago on May 19.

C. F. HIXON RESIGNS.

As Manager of the Union Supply Company at Juniataville.

PRESENT WATER IS POLLUTED

Not Only Are the Railroads and Coal Mines of the Neighborhood Menaced by Water Shortage, But Quality of That for Domestic Use is Bad.

J. B. Hogg has just returned from a trip of inspection of the proposed water supply system for the South Huntingdon Water Company, the reservoir for which will be located in Barren run, a tributary of Jacobs Creek in South Huntingdon township, West moreland county, to supply the towns of Jacobs Creek, Smithton, including the large new brewery, and West Newton, together with the Baltimore & Ohio and Pittsburgh & Lake Erie roads and the mines of the Pittsburgh Coal Company in that immediate vicinity, which are as follows: Dan Nos. 1 and 2, Sichel Hollow, Whitsett, Burke, Vaverly and Port Royal.

There is probably no district in Western Pennsylvania that suffers so seriously for lack of good water in the dry periods of the year, or in fact any time of the year, as the territory just described. In times of low water the streams become heavily impregnated with acid mine water, which percolates through the underlying strata into the wells of this locality making the water unhealthy and distasteful for domestic use and ruinous for boiler purposes.

The railroads last summer were compelled to run trains of tank cars from water supply points above Connellville in order to supply their engines. The scarcity of water makes the insurance rates very high. Three percent is the prevailing rate in this region, one man at Jacobs Creek paying $900 insurance per annum.

The South Huntingdon Water Company is composed of the following: John Anderson of Scotland; Cyrus Bohart of Connellville; D. E. Asterson and Cowan P. Henner of Smithton and James Guyton of Jacobs Creek.

It has been decided to build a concrete dam, and Mr. Hogg in his office is working out the details of the various types of the best modern concrete construction and will submit three different schemes to the stockholders. One will be a vertical wall with counterforts or buttresses, another will be of the Amburn type and the third will be of solid concrete. A comparison on the efficiency and cost will be submitted and when a selection has been made, bids will be asked for the immediate construction of the work.

The reservoir will have a capacity of 14,354,000 gallons. The water shed has an area of 2,700 acres. The water shed is peculiarly free from sources of contamination as it is almost entirely covered with thickets and a growth of small timber. This undergrowth will also regulate to a large degree the run off, insuring an even supply of water.

Mr. Hogg will have a corps of engineers on the ground, not only this Tuesday, as soon as it is possible for him to organize a new party.

If this territory developed as the stockholders anticipate, an additional reservoir for storage purposes will be built above the one now proposed. This will be of a large capacity and will act as an auxiliary to regulate the flow into the lower reservoir.

John Anderson has arranged to put a force of laborers on Monday for clearing and grubbing the basin of the reservoir of all roots, stumps and other vegetable matter, and also to do the excavation necessary for the dam.

WINTER WEATHER HAS THE CALL NOW

Mercury Has Dropped to 29 Degrees and It May Even Get Colder.

Good Snow Fall.

The cold snap continued today and this morning the mercury had shrunk 27° against 23° for yesterday morning.

Last evening it rose to 29, but the rise was only temporary. During the night considerable snow fell and the ground was covered with a white mantle of it when dawn broke.

This weather is not unusual for the season and to beat April weather the record of 1890 must be smashed. On April 16 of that year the mercury dropped to 16 below zero and there was between a foot and a foot and a half of snow.

Extra Car Service.

Extra car service has been arranged by the West Point for Easter Sunday. There will be no change in the regular schedule but double-deckers will be run when the traffic is heavy.

OUTLOOK BAD FOR WHEAT CROP.

Smaller Acreage This Year and Conditions Not Up to the Mark.

CORN CROP WILL BE BIG

Farmers Can Do Much Towards Helping Recovery From Business Depression—Tariff Will Be Revised By Its Friends in the General Balf.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Our crop outlook is becoming of increasing importance. The condition of winter wheat is anything but satisfactory, the acres being considerably smaller than a year ago and condition lower.
While there has been some improvement in the latter respect, the prospects are that the winter crop will be the lowest since 1901, wheat estimates placing it as low as 125,000,000 bushels. The effect of this is already seen in the abnormally high prices for wheat; for the world's crop of wheat is unquestionably short and has not kept pace with the growth in population. The effect of this is already seen in the abnormally high prices for
wheat; for the world's crop of wheat
is unquestionably short and has not kept pace with the growth in population. The effect of this is already seen
in the abnormally high prices for
wheat; for the world's crop of wheat
is unquestionably short and has not kept pace with the growth in population.

General trade conditions, while somewhat mixed present a decided element of hopefulness. Business is moderate in volume, yet the tendency is towards improvement, especially where orders have been stimulated by concessions in prices. More activity is shown in iron and steel as the result of lower prices and the revival of building, especially of large structures, is attributable to this cause. The general condition of business is sound and confidence is rising. There is no doubt that recuperative influences are steady-ly at work; costs are being reduced, and only time is required to bring about more normal conditions. Of course, the tariff is still an impediment. There is no special anxiety, however, regarding final results. Little probability exists of any disturbing reductions, and now that the Payne bill with all its objectionable features has practically failed in the house the prospects are that a competent measure will be introduced by Senator Aldrich. Evidently the tariff will be revised by its friends, and there is little reason to look for any radical or important changes.

Worth Knowing.
To remove pimples, blackheads,
blotches and all forms of skin eruptions,
is according to a well known Physician, a very easy matter; he says that many are afflicted with some one of the above ailments, and are subject to a great deal of embarrassment on account of the unsightly appearance which they present, and recommends the following simple harmless and inexpensive treatment. Go to your druggist and get this wonderful skin Alleviator. Cleanse once-half ounce.
Either one ounce, Alcohol seven ounces, mix, shake well and apply to the parts affected night and morning, allowing it to remain on the skin at least ten minutes, then wipe off the powder from the skin. Use a soft cloth or sponge in applying the mixture and in from ten days to two weeks your face will be smooth and clear as a marriage bell. Get the Pure Alleviator, which is only put up in one-half-ounce packages. Ask to see it. 2

Local Men Purchasers.
August Stickle, Jr., and James W.
Buttermore of Iowa purchased 160 acres of land near the Beeson works of the Stewart Iron Company. The price paid was $300 an acre. The buyers of Uniontown sold the coal. It was the Sawicki vein and good only for steaming purposes.

Wife Released.
After having her husband arrested for assault and battery Mrs. Teresina Palmeri released and the case was settled before Justice of the Peace by P. Clark. Fred Palmeri, the defendant, spent the night in the lockup.

Day and Night Schools.
They begin next Monday at Peterson Business College, Scottdale, and there is no better time to begin a course.
Instruction is all private at the student's own desk.

Warning.
Beware of persons traveling around selling clothing under my name. They

HEAD OF D. A. R.
SOON TO CONVEY
IN WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Members of the administration and anti-administration factions of the Daughters of the American Revolution are lining up for a hot fight when the convention of the D. A. R. opens here on April 10. The main point of contention is the selection of a President
General to succeed Mrs. Donald Mc-Lenn. The principal candidates are Mrs. Matthew Scott of Bloomington, Ill., and Mrs. William Cummings Story of New York city. Mrs. Scott has the support of Mrs. McLenn, but the New York candidate also has the convention with a strong following.

HAVE DIFFERENT VIEWS.

Auditors of Brownsville Township
Don't See Things the Same Way.

UNIONTOWN, April 10.—Although Brownsville township has less than five miles of county roads, the auditors of that section had a difficult point to explain to the tax payers who objected to the road supervisors acting as roadmasters also. The taxpayers were not familiar with the circumstances and did not know there was a work tax in effect.
As there is both the cash and work tax in effect in the township the road supervisors were not at fault, so the auditors decided.

MARY ANN DRAWS ONLY SMALL CROWD

Between Good Friday and a Bad Night
But Few People Saw
The Play.

Between Good Friday and a bad night, the house which saw "Mary Ann" at the Soloson theatre was indifferent. There was a more handful of people there; and if the players worked without enthusiasm it was because the front of the house bore little resemblance to a meal ticket.
Miss Bettie Bancroft was the whole show because the support given her was not any too good. But what the other characters might have lacked was made up by the masterly manner in which Miss Bancroft portrayed the part which made Eleanor Robson fantastic. Miss Bancroft's emotional work was of a high standard.
The interpretation of Zangwill's comedy is difficult and it would take a company of most extraordinary players to get off some of those long dialogues which support the snap and life from the play. But it was worth the time to see Miss Bancroft act and the play deserved better patronage.

Well attended was a scriptural entertainment, "A Trip Around the World in Eighty Minutes," given last evening in the Christian Church under the auspices of the ladies of the church. Quite a little time was realized and those present were delighted with the entertainment.

arranged with a picture of the lit-

the little name sakes of baby Carrie Jane, and several other very intimate

the South Connelville Evangelical Church met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. I. Deibel at South present. It was decided to hold the instead of on May 14. The next meet-last evening at a very beautiful card party at her home on Eighth street.

cleverly carried out in all the decorations with bicyclics, daffodils and other Easter flowers as focal points at the tables. Six tables were required for five hundred, the game played. At midnight cards were laid aside in pareon.

PENNSYLVANIA INDUSTRIES AND THE NEW TARIFF.

The Tariff bill passed the House last night after a month's debate, materially changed in many instances, but not materially bettered so far as Pennsylvania industries are concerned, and certainly not improved in its equitable features. Its provisions were not the most symmetrical when it came out of the Ways and Means Committee, and they have been sadly marred in the making-over by the House. This fact alone will be sufficient ground for a practically new Senate bill in which Pennsylvania capital and labor may fare better. We will indicate that hope.

The House bill as finally adopted cuts the coal and steel industries to the bone and leaves the petroleum industry bare. It is a view to punishing the Steel Trust and the Oil Trust and wholly unkindly of the fact that neither of them control these industries. There are in each a large number of independent operators who are less able to stand the reductions in the Tariff than are the Trust interests. The latter will be able to get along successfully. The blow that is aimed at them will glance off, and the full and deadly impact will reach those for whom it is not intended.

Complaint is made, not without reason, that in Tariff revisions there is always a tendency to make a mark of Pennsylvania industries. This should perhaps be expected when the revision is being made by Democratic authority; but it is un-Republican, unwise and unjust. Pennsylvania never falters in its support of the Republican national ticket; the Republican doctrine of Protection is pledged to the reasonable conservation of our industries; and they ask no more than a decent redemption of that pledge.

The House has given them a stone to throw at the Senate they must look for trouble.

EXTEND THE SESSION AND DO THE BUSINESS.

The House at Harrisburg is accused of "playing hook" and its absence will be brought to book on Monday, but the offense is never considered very serious and the truants will not doubt be excused without even reprimand.

The School Code has been responsible for a great deal of trouble at this session of the Legislature and it will be responsible for the defeat of a great deal of legislation which in the aggregate at least is far more desirable than the School Code could possibly be.

The School Code is founded on right principles regarding the government of the schools, but it attacks one of the dearest American privileges, namely, the right of the people to choose their own school directors, and this has been seized upon by the opposition and much exploited. It would have been wiser to have laid the whole matter over for another year, especially in view of the fact that our whole elective schedule may by that time be changed. The State is sadly in need of a Borough Code as well as a School Code, and it would have been a work of constructive statesmanship to have placed in the hands of the same Commission the formulation of both codes.

The enactment of so much excellent legislation should suggest to the Legislature the propriety of extending its session sufficiently to attend properly to its duties.

NOT A HOWL BUT

THE VOICE OF PROTEST.
The efficient and would-be Official Organ, whose inspirations just now are so plainly marked as not to need any initials, hands us the following paragraph:

The Courier is raising a howl against the new name for Main street. Perhaps Connelville did make a grave mistake in not naming it Sleepy or Crawford avenue.

We are no dog to bay the moon or howl at anybody or anything. We have that in our pockets and purses. Whether or not Main street's good name is spoiled by a bad one, we will accept the situation, we trust with fortitude, confident that if the citizens of the town can endure it we can.

But that does not deter us from pointing out in a dignified manner the propriety of the question. We have given reasons why we think it would be better for all interests to let the name of Main street stand, and we venture to believe that a large majority of the Main street citizens are of a like opinion. While our own views are not binding upon the Town Council or the Burgess, we think those of the residents of Main street should be.

It has never been explained why it was desirable to change the name of Main street; on the other hand, we have pointed out why it was not wise to change it. The change is evidently not for the better, since it is generally condemned by our own citizens and ridiculed by many of the neighboring newspapers. The Uniontown Standard, for example, says:

Connelville can make as much fuss about nothing as any town in the country. It wanted about a suitable name for its Main street and had people excited sending in names and then selected the name of the little street in the rear of the News Standard office, running up back of the jail and to the old Presbyterian graveyard—Penn. Did you ever?

The principal thoroughfare and business street of Uniontown is called Main street, and the business men on that street do not want it changed. They desire it to go forth that they are in business on the Main street, which in its ordinary interpretation means the principal street. For the same reason, we can readily understand why the Main street business interests of the East Side and the West Side object to robbing the street of its distinctive and distinguished nomenclature. They have excellent business reasons for wanting the name of Main street to remain as it is.

The Courier, however, has no personal interest in the matter. We are located in what has been called Sleepy alley, and we won't howl if the Town Council in its craze for new names changes that.

The Pennsylvania Legislature can give the Congress points in legislative work. The School Code was as big a bill as the Tariff bill, yet within 48 hours it has been passed through the House on second reading with nearly every one of its over 2,000 sections amended. Harrisburg legislation in the closing days of the session is ever strenuous if not always satisfactory.

Somerset county's latest tragedy is most pathetic and deplorable.

The Dunbar township school authorities are striving earnestly to outgrow the art of oratory possibly with a view to furnishing a better class of statement for the public service. Dunbar township may furnish the future generation with a President, provided, of course, Pennsylvania becomes a beautiful state.

Scottsdale has plenty of ambitions for mine and fire boss employment.

The 12-page editions of The Courier this week indicate that the Connelville and Scottsdale merchants have an abiding faith in the future of business, also in the efficiency of The Courier as an advertising medium.

Smithfield borough is awakening to the importance of looking after its public health.

Big coal deals are beginning to crop out in West Virginia as well as in Western Pennsylvania. The future of coal is becoming less and less a matter of speculation, and more and more a matter of a solid investment.

The establishment by the H. C. Frick Coke Company of a rescue training station at Leasburg is but another evidence of the progressive methods of this company, and its location only another proof of the fact that Connelville is the center of the coke region.

We will hope that the fruit wasn't too much about venturing out.

The rumor that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company wants to keep alive the South Penn charter rights is not at all possible. It is beginning to be apparent that the South Penn will be a good thing to build ere long.

Dead infants are not desirable garden truck.

Dull Cure has no terrors for Gay Society.

Uniontown wants a patrol wagon to haul in the obstreperous drunks. Perhaps the Town Council might be able to pick up a second-hand automobile cheap.

The crop of Republican candidates for Auditor General is growing.

A Brownsville congregation is reported to be "worshiping" because somebody dropped a $1,000 bill in the collection basket. Maybe John Wesley Gates was around that way in disguise.

We hope the Weather Man will not be ugly to the Easter Honnet.

It develops that the Standard Oil Company has over 3,000 stockholders, but that John Dees is the Big Bellwether. He holds his holdings, all others look like 30 cents.

March weather is intruding upon April.

Connelville continues to be a convention town, even if it is not officially recognized as such by the County Superintendent.

Scottsdale's real estate men have faith in the future, and that faith is shared by Scottsdale's candidates for office.

The proposed Connelville region coke merger does not seem to interfere in any manner with improvements and extensions.

Uniontown has boosted its valuation some $200,000. Is this a start?

The mixing code has been laid away in the incubator. Perhaps it will be ready to hatch two years hence.

The Whitt family found plenty of mail when they returned home. Some species of fume is altogether undesirable.

Some of the alleged coke news printed in the columns of our contemporary is more sensational than truthful, more dishing than faithful. There was no coke in the coke

WHICH DOES HE MEAN?

(Advertisement.)

"I thought the matter should be submitted to all the Democratic lawyers of the county, and especially to those whose names were mentioned as probable candidates, and let them discuss it and consult with each other and their clients throughout the county, and so DETERMINE AND INDICATE WHO, in their judgment, the DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE SHOULD BE, and I stated positively and cheerfully that no far as my being a candidate is concerned, the judgment and wishes of the Democratic lawyers and their clients would DETERMINE THE MATTER and I would be controlled thereby and act accordingly."

Judge Umbel's announcement, March 31, 1908.

and want to read all the news of the region rightly given will find it in The Weekly Courier.

The Federal Government is doing some big things just now, but this is a big country.

Greene county coal owners are reported to be about to build a railroad from Uniontown to Wheeling. There is nothing about this. The coal interests of Greene county are big enough to build their own railroad.

The House at Washington votes for free trade, but some willing to run the free of some of the other industries of the country.

Legislative respect for the judiciary assumed a decided financial aspect this week, but that will not likely increase the respect of the courts for the acts of the Legislature.

The Town Meeting.

The Town Meeting last night with an interesting assembly, it brought together a large number of good citizens who are presumably conscientious in the desire to promote the public welfare. Such meetings are usually profitable and it would be well if they could be held at stated intervals, merely for complaint or for capricious fault-finding.

Undoubtedly much of the time is wasted by the municipalities of this country. Part of this occurs through dishonesty but most of it through carelessness in the administration of public affairs.

To call at all public officials charged with the expenditure of the money of the taxpayers is simply to indict our system of government under which full power is entrusted in the people. No matter how much money has been stolen or wasted we are not yet prepared to admit that the American system is a failure. It has often been said that in this country the people get just what they deserve.

The power is in their hands.

Therefore the man who denounces local conditions should remember that part of the responsibility for their existence is upon him. If those conditions are undesirable he is one of those who must bear the blame. It should be the aim of every patriotic citizen to correct abuses not by cavilling but by sincere and earnest effort to convince the fellow citizens that these conditions should not obtain.

Set Its Name Was Main Street.

Uniontown, Pa.

Connelville has a paramount issue up before her citizens. Since the consolidation of that burg with New Haven they have been wrestling with the tremendous question of naming the main street that extends through both boroughs and over the bridge. Some want to call it Main street, others Youghiogheny avenue, and others by different names. It seems to be a harder problem than young parents have to name their first offspring to the satisfaction of all the relatives including the doctor and midwife. If they had only put down a list of suggested names on the ballot when they voted in the Greenburg Review it would have been settled. What shall they name the baby? Call it Mud Island Boulevard.

Greenburg's Ageless Ambition.

Lafayette Bulletin.

The discovery of a mineral spring on the Stony Hill farm near Greenburg has led the Greenburg Review to have a vision of a big mansion erected near the spring, Cambridge and Bedford, and Mr. Cloness will probably shut down at once, when they learn of this wonderful spring.

Not to Mention Other Obstructions.

Mayevale Republican.

Connelville has the annexation fever and is gathering in everything in sight, and some out of sight. Heaven, the county has saved Mayevale.

Does Lickins Expect to Prove It?

Washington Observer.

Editor Lickins of Uniontown, says that 40 per cent of the voters in Fayette county can be purchased.

(Advertisement.)

"In my opinion this is not a question to be SETTLED and DETERMINED by 90, nor even 100 per cent of the Democratic lawyers of Fayette county, but should be, and so far as I am concerned, will be SETTLED and DETERMINED by the over 8,000 Democratic voters of the entire county."

BROKEN STREET LID BAD FOR HORSES.

One Nearly Went Down Into Scottsdale Sewer on Broadway.

EXPLOSION HAD BROKEN THE LID

Walter Miller's New Martin House Has Four Feathered Tenants Already—Fire Boss Claus Was a Model
One.

SCOTSDALE, April 10.—The recent blowing up of the old sewer down across Broadway was nearly responsible for a serious accident yesterday, which might have resulted in a good shed loss to William Seaman the hauler. When the sewer broke the heavy iron went off the ferry mill the heavy iron was thrown into place. The hauler was covered again but when one of Seaman's horses stepped on it yesterday, the iron tilted and the horse by a desperate effort saved himself from going down into the deep hole. It is a wonder that the horse did not break a leg.

The beautiful snow, which has been falling for several days this week, but the cold and snow caused yesterday and yesterday evening, when there were a couple of those methodical downfalls of the beautiful that kept at it until they got the ground whitened. It was a sad evening for the stores, for the delicate Easter bunnies could not stand such a spell of weather, and the prospects were bad for a big Saturday trade unless a change should come. This morning the town was carpeted white with snow and the air was cold and clear, with prospects for brighter and better weather tomorrow. The hopeful are looking forward to such an Easter day tomorrow when they may bloom in new life if the weather be anywise kind enough to allow peach basket buns and such creations to come out safely.

It Was a Model Class.
The examination of the biggest class for the bunnies ever held in Scottsdale which took place yesterday was very pleasing to Miss Inspector Allen McGinnis and Examiners R. P. Glan and William Dugan. Although the class was crowded, every candidate appeared in the G. A. H. band room in the Borough building the order was perfect and the type of candidates the examiners say was the best that they have had as a group. Noticeable among the list of names of candidates for the bunnies job were the names of so many foreigners, showing that they are ambitious to become assimilated with the American progress. In a generation they will be Americans by adoption and there will be little to distinguish the alien born except their complexion and name.

The Martins in Town.
Since Walter Miller built his new apartment house for the Martins at the home of his father, William Miller, several of the feathered family have arrived in town, four of the little birds having taken lodgings. The new bird house is the finest in town, not on a high pole and with 24 apartments in it and built most artistically. Last year the Martins had a house with 12 rooms in it, but concluded to build larger this year. The Martins are fearless and don't get disturbed when the residents shoot at the English sparrows that come around. The Martins seem to think that they are not being shot at, but that the English sparrows are the marks. And the sparrows oddly enough have felt all the alarm.

To Learn Actual Business.
The spring term of Peter's Business College, Scottsdale, begins next Monday when both day and night schools open.

An Easter Market.
The ladies of the United Brethren Church are holding an Easter market in the vacant room at the Savings & Trust building today.

Of a Personal Nature.
J. Warren Brooks has been in Pittsburgh several days this week on business.

Norwin L. Kerr of the University of Pittsburgh's medical department, is home for the Easter vacation.
U. G. Miller, a former resident of this place, is in town on business, having come over from his home at Danora yesterday.

Pinafors.
The production is complete, the end of rehearsals is near, and next Friday and Saturday will witness the best production of any comic opera ever presented in this city. Pinafors at the Seamen Theatre April 15 and 17, matinee Saturday, will be a gorgeous affair. Director Chas. B. Stout has worked untiringly and his efforts will be crowned with success. It is given under the auspices of Co. D, N. G. U., the members of which have a number of tickets to sell.

Change in Demurrage Rates.
The Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh railroad has given notice to shippers of a change in its demurrage rates, reducing from 72 to 48 hours the free time for unloading coal and coke. The Pennsylvania law has placed the limit at 48 hours for all commodities, and to allow 72 hours to consignees in the State of New York would make the railroad liable to a charge of discrimination before the interstate commerce commission.

PEERLESS WON.

Take Two Games From Peerless Team Last Night.

SCOTSDALE, April 10.—Last night on the Peerless alley, the Peerless team under their efficient leader East and his assistant Kelley went down to defeat. Pentheus rolled a very good score in all three games, rolling 1250 for the average of 416 2/3, very good for amateurs. List of Pentheus had high average of 97 while Lewis of the same team had high score of 112 plus. Slowball Kelly was off color, as was also J. East, both missing easy squares at different times. Captain Lewis started strong with 112 but in the last two games rolled a scorable game and up with an average of 94 2/3. Next game will be Friday, April 17th for the championship.

EXTREME MEASURES ADOPTED

Acting Speaker Reynolds of Lawrence Orders House Doors Closed and Absent Members Arrested
Wherever They Could Be Found.

Harriburg, Pa., April 10.—The house of representatives closed its session for the week with the doors of the chamber locked and sergeant-at-arms scouring the capitol to arrest members who were absent without leave. Fearing an attack upon the school code the men who are urging the measure broke a quorum after forcing a roll call and for the first time since the session of 1903 the door was locked. A round-up of the great building failed to bring a quorum and adjournment had to be taken with but seventy-five members present.

The incidents surrounding the close of the session were filled with excitement. The house had been locked on senate amendments to house bills and two members on the house calendar fell for lack of constitutional majorities. The absence of a quorum was apparent and the acting speaker, W. S. Reynolds of Lawrence, ordered appropriation bills on first and second reading to be taken up, before third reading bills could be reached. W. S. Smith, Crawford, who has been a leader in the fight against the school code, moved that the vote by which the bill passed second reading be reconsidered.

The Exodus Begins.
The acting speaker ruled the motion out of order for the reason that a motion to reconsider a vote by which a bill passed second reading could not be made when the bill was not on the printed calendar. The bill had just been slated for a vote Monday afternoon, but the ruling of the speaker provoked protests and in the midst of the talk Mr. Falley, Philadelphian, moved to reconsider the vote. The vote showed a disposition to defeat the measure when Mr. Meyer, Lebanon, saying that there was a disposition to renew filibustering, moved a call of the roll on the motion to adjourn. The chairman reluctantly put the motion and as the clerk began to call Messrs. Meyer and Falley followed by other twenty members left the chamber.

A roll call showed a quorum and the acting speaker ordered the doors locked. This was the signal for a wild scramble of members and spectators toward the doors, during which Mr. Falley and an assistant sergeant had a scuffle at one of the exits.

75 Members Present.
When the doors were locked there was a thumping at them by members who had just heard of the situation and who wanted to get in. They were denied admission and the speaker ordered the roll to be called. The roll called seventy-five men answered. First the speaker was ordering the sergeant-at-arms to hale before the bar of the house all members who were absent without leave. Meyer, after and Black, Allegheny, who had gone over to Governor Stuart's office to inquire about bills before the governor, and Mr. Thompson, Utah, who was in his committee room, appeared. They explained their absence, but the speaker declined to accept any explanations. "I was not out of the chamber three minutes," said Mr. Alter. "I have been here at every session."

In the midst of the stir ex-Speaker McClain moved adjournment until 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. The roll then was called of "Ayes," and the motion was declared carried. The speaker directed the sergeant-at-arms to bring all absent members before the house at that time. Speaker Cox, Chairman Woodward of the appropriations committee and most of the prominent members of the house are among the absentees and must purge themselves.

Absentees May Be Forgiven.
It is probable that a resolution to excuse the members absent will be presented, although some of the members who were in the chamber declare they are not inclined to be forgiven. The session was "uneventful" prior to the breaking of the quorum. The auxiliary forestry reserve bill was beaten by a close vote and the bill to fix a rate of payment for cattle taken by the state because of contagious diseases was defeated because of a senate amendment, but reconsidered.

A special order to take a vote on the school code Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock was adopted.

IS EIGHTY TODAY.

Celebrations By Booth's Followers
Throughout the World.

London, April 10.—From all parts of the civilized and uncivilized world into which the Salvation Army has extended its work have come today letters, telegrams and cablegrams of congratulation for General William Booth on the completion of his eightieth year. Thousands of members of the army have assembled here to celebrate the anniversary and address received here indicate that the day is being celebrated by the army throughout the world.

The army's building is the scene of the steady arrival and departure of delegations bearing to him good wishes from many quarters of the globe. General Booth is taking advantage of his jubilee to advance the interests of his latest project for spending the work of the army. He is advancing the establishment of the World University of Humanity, with branches in Great Britain, America and elsewhere, whose purpose it shall be to train men and women for work among the poor, the downtrodden and the churchless. He asks $5,000,000 to make his plans effective.

UNDER UGLY CHARGES.

Leading Citizens Alleged to Have Robbed Children's Home of Bequest.

Ashland, O., April 10.—A joint indictment charging embezzlement of $15,000 was returned against State Senator Frank M. Patterson, former Common Pleas Judge Robert M. Campbell, former Common Pleas Judge H. L. McGraw and George H. Mann, former cashier of the Farmers bank.

The charge grows out of the settlement of Mrs. Mary F. Freer's estate. Mrs. Freer's will left to the Ashland county children's home the sum of $40,000. Of this amount it is said only $144 was turned over to the home.

Ultimate acted as the administrator of the estate. Campbell drew the will. The other two men, it is charged, participated in the embezzlement in their legal capacity as lawyers. Two other indictments were returned against Campbell, whose term as common pleas judge expired only a few weeks ago.

THROUGH THE CANAL.

Steamship Admiral Enters Famous Waterway With Roosevelt.

Port Said, Egypt, April 10.—The steamship Admiral bearing former President Roosevelt and party to Montebello entered the canal this morning. She is expected to emerge at the eastern end this evening.

There was no official reception here to the former president, but F. K. Watson Pasha, first aid de camp to the khedive, accompanied by the American consul, Mr. Liddings, boarded the Admiral and greeted Mr. Roosevelt on behalf of the khedive. Last evening the canal officials entertained Mr. Roosevelt at dinner at the Suez canal residence.

Keenness.
Washington Irving, who wrote the following lines on the value of trifles, evidently believed in them as emblems of friendship:

"There is something, after all, in those trifles that friends bestow upon each other which is an unfailing indication of the place the giver holds in the affection. I would believe that one who possessed a jar of hair, a simple flower or any little of my bestowing loved me, though no show was made of it, while all the pretensions in the world would not win my confidence in one who set no value on such little things. Trifles they may be, but it is by such that character and disposition are oftenest revealed."

HOUSE PASSES
TARIFF BILL.All Free Lumber Amendments Are Defeated.

FREE HIDES STAY IN MEASURE

Motion of Minority Leader Clark To Recommit With Instructions Voted Down—One Republican Votes
Against the Bill.

Washington, April 10.—After three weeks of consideration the Payne tariff bill was passed by the house of representatives by a vote of 217 to 161. One Republican, Austin (Tex.), voted against the measure, and the Democrats, all from Louisiana, Messrs. Broussard, Estopinal, Fulo and Wickliffe, voted for it. An attempt by Champ Clark, the minority leader, to recommit the bill with instructions failed.

The day was filled with excitement from the moment the session began until the minute of adjournment. The members were keyed up to the highest pitch, and a practically full membership remained on duty throughout. The final vote demonstrated the capacity of the Republican organization to get together. The situation with respect to lumber was greatly relieved. The Republican leaders when it became manifest that the advocates of the proposition, placing it on the free list were in the minority. Because of that fact Mr. Fitzgerald, New York, charged that a midnight deal had been made whereby free lumber was to be voted down and the rates on barley and barley malt to be raised and this notwithstanding the denials of Messrs. Mann, Illinois, and Cushman, Washington, who offered the barley amendments.

Oil Goes on Free List.
One of the principal changes effected in the Payne bill since its introduction was the placing of petroleum on the free list. This involved a more seriously contested fight than any of the other amendments. Speaker Cannon, during debate on the amendment to reduce the duty, took the floor in the defense of the higher rate of duty.

Among the other important amendments that were made since the bill came from committee were those striking out the duty on tea and the consular duties on coffee. The final vote of the maximum duty of 24 per cent on coffee contained in the maximum and minimum section of the bill was also significant.

To the free list were added evergreen seedlings, cloves and nut oil, which is used in making varnish. The patent law provision, intended to reduce the duty on the new patent law, was stricken out on account of an international convention. The so-called "joker" in the cotton cloth schedule, which it was claimed, would increase the duty of the Dingler bill several hundred per cent, was corrected, the method of counting threads in the cloth being made the same as in the present law.

Union Label Tobacco.
The section restricting the contents of packages of tobacco was amended to conform with the present law in order that union labels may not be excluded from such packages. The duties on barley, barley malt, charcoal iron, pineapples in sugar, anchovies, medicated cotton, and cotton collars and cuffs, as originally in the bill, were increased.

The internal revenue law was also amended so that raisers of tobacco will not have to pay a manufacturer's license in order to dispose of their leaf tobacco. There were several technical changes in the schedule, principally downward, and lace curtain and netting machines were included in the proviso which permits the entry free of duty of lace machinery prior to May 1, 1910. Hides, hosiery and gloves were left as reported by the committee, hides "re-manufacturing free and an increased duty being proposed for gloves and stockings.

TAFT WINS A VICTORY

300,000 Tons of Philippine Sugar Will Come in Free.

Washington, April 10.—President Taft has won a victory for the Philippine Islands in the acceptance by the senate committee on finance of the provision of the Payne bill for the free admission of 300,000 gross tons annually of Philippine sugar.

This decision was reached after the sub-committee considering the sugar schedule had taken to the White House Charles B. Warren, president of the Michigan Sugar company, and had confirmed an agreement between Mr. Taft and Mr. Warren made in this city last fall when the president was a guest at the Boardman residence.

Free art, the dream of American collectors of foreign masterpieces in paintings and sculpture, practically was assured by the adoption in the senate committee on finance of an amendment to the tariff bill which will admit these treasures without restriction of any kind. The acceptance of this amendment is a personal triumph for Senators Lodge and Aldrich.

CONFIDENCE NOTICEABLE

Dun's Review Notes Constantly Improving Trade Conditions.

New York, April 10.—Dun's Weekly Review of Trade says today: "Although confidence in the future is more noticeable than satisfaction with present conditions, yet one by one disturbing elements are gradually disappearing. While the tariff is still under discussion and is checking full activity in industries most concerned show their trade to be very fairly satisfactory. The textile industry, farthest removed from the tariff exhibit, is a naturally making the best exhibit. While the iron and steel trade is still in the unsettling process of readjustment yet it makes the best showing in exactly that line—the structural—while a sign of building activity is in the primary cotton goods market the most interesting feature of the week has been the activity in wide convertibles of print cloth, yarn, converters and cutters now showing for the first time a disposition to operate freely, while manufacturers in all fields are reluctant to make contracts except at a material advance."

Anthony, Miss Caroline Crockett, daughter of the president of the New York State Suffrage association, the Rev. Mary Augusta Sanford, pastor of the Unitarian church of New Orleans, La., and Miss Wilson, assistant to Miss Sanford.

Mrs. Ida Husted Harper, the well-known writer and suffragist, sailed today for England on the Caronia. She will remain abroad about three months.

THREE BANKS GO UNDER

Knapp Interests at Binghamton, N. Y., Involved in Failure.

Binghamton, N. Y., April 10.—The Binghamton Trust company and affiliated banks at Deposit and Callcon, this state, have failed. The deposits of the trust company are over $3,200,000; the Deposit bank had about $450,000 and the Callcon bank about $300,000.

These banks, it is said, have made heavy loans to a publishing company of Deposit, the amount loaned, it is understood, being over $700,000. Former Congressman Charles J. Knapp is president of the Binghamton Trust company, his son Percy is cashier and his nephew, Charles P. Knapp, managed the Deposit and the Callcon banks. The Knapp family, are the principal owners of the publishing company.

CASTRO MAY SAIL TODAY

France Will Ship Him to Europe if He's Fit to Travel.

Washington, April 10.—The French government has informed the state department of its determination to put into effect immediately the decision to exile former President Castro of Venezuela from Port de Franco, Martinique, and compel him to return to Europe.

The program is to put him aboard the first vessel touching at Port de Franco. If this program is carried out Castro will be on his way to Europe in a day or two unless his physical condition is such that an ocean trip at this time would put his life in jeopardy. The first steamer scheduled to touch at the Martinique port, Europe, bound in the French line Verallies due there today.

INTERESTING DETAILS

Concerning Indisposition of Handsome Mal, Distinguished First Sacker.

Augusta, Ga., April 10.—Mal Chase's smaller sores are today running very freely in response to treatment at the contagion hospital, where he is detained. The sores will commence to heal about Sunday. The blotches cover his entire body, though they appear more pronounced on his hands and face. Scabs are commencing to form and he will begin scaling about Sunday week. When scaling is entirely over he will be given his liberty. He is planning to resign his club May 10.

Chase's wife is coming to Augusta, though he can only talk to her over the telephone.

Old London Cookshops.
Medieval London, besides being a "city of taverns," was famous for its cookshops, such as the place on the river bank described by Fitzstephen in the thirteenth century. "There every day we may call for any dish of meat, roasted or boiled, fish both small and great, venison and fowl. If friends come upon a sudden, we need not travel to a citizen's house and they be loath to wait for tedious preparations and dressings of fresh meat for the servant run to the water side, where all things that can be desired are at hand." This particular place of public cookery apparently did not indoors as well as an outdoor trade, for Fitzstephen further described it as being used both day and night by "multitudes of soldiers or other strangers who refresh themselves to their content on roasted and boiled dishes of meat and the rarest and best of fowl." But what were the two last mentioned windows?—London Cookshops.

NEEDFUL KNOWLEDGE.

Connellsville People Should Learn to Detect the Approach of Kidney Disease.

The symptoms of kidney trouble are so unmistakable that they leave no ground for doubt. The back aches constantly, headaches and dizzy spells may occur and the victim is often weighed down by a feeling of languor and fatigue. Neglect these warnings and there is danger of dropsy, Bright's Disease, or diabetes. Any one of these symptoms is warning enough to begin treating the kidneys at once. Delay often proves fatal.

BLOODY HAIR FOUND IN STOVE.

Surprise Sprung at Inquest on Mrs. Vinnie Young.

ARREST SOON IN ERIE MURDER

Testimony at Inquest Over Remains of Widow of Prominent Erie Iron Manufacturer Assumes Sensational Aspect.

Erie, Pa., April 10.—Coroner Hanes sprung a surprise at the inquest on the death of Mrs. Vinnie M. Young, the widow of the former wealthy Erie iron man, at her home here Wednesday night. While investigating the premises the coroner found the aged woman's glasses and a piece of her hair in the kitchen stove. The hair was matted with blood and had not been injured by fire, though the glasses were partially burned.

According to the story of Delmar Young, the murdered woman's son, when he entered the house on the night of the murder the stove in the kitchen was burning at full height. The coroner stated to the jury that in his opinion this bloody hair was placed in the stove after the fire had been put out.

The chief witness at the inquest was Fred Sessler, who was in company with Delmar Young when the body was found. He said he went to the Young home with some brass for Delmar and that they went into the cellar to weigh it. As he came into the house, Sessler says, Young told him his mother was missing. According to the witness, Delmar Young had just lit the gas in the cellar when he cried out, "I have found her," and dashed among some boxes and barrels, running toward the cellar about twenty feet to where the body lay covered up with a carpet.

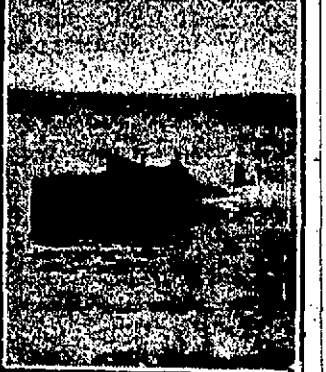

This part of Sessler's testimony was denied by Young, who claimed they located the body by tracing the blood marks. The coroner's jury failed to name the party guilty of the crime, but it is expected that an arrest will be made soon.

The American boat, Standard did not start owing to a cylinder having cracked. Dixie II kept in second place until the thirteenth round. Then her water pump burst and she was forced to abandon the contest.

TUG'S FATE SETTLED

Wreckage Drifts Ashore Telling Story of Lake Tragedy.

Cleveland, April 10.—There is no longer doubt that the tug George Floss with her crew of six and three passengers sunk in Lake Erie during Wednesday's gale. Wreckage from the boat washed ashore twelve miles out of Cleveland. The wreckage consisted of part of the cabin with the word "Floss" on it and some bucket racks. No bodies were found.

Searching parties are now going all along the east shore looking for bodies and other wreckage.

Those on board the Floss when she left Cleveland were Capt. William Barry, Captain John Dally, Engineer Fred Gilbert, Peck MacKenzie, Frank Weschler, Henry Anderson, John O'Donnell, Joe Martin and a sixteen-year-old boy named Campbell. The three last named were passengers on the Floss and had gone fishing with the crew the day of the gale. All of the men but Weschler were residents of Cleveland. He lived in Erie, Pa.

YALE-PENNSY BOAT RACE

New Haven Men Will Row in Their English Rigged Shell.

Philadelphia, April 10.—The first of the year's great collegiate water contests will be decided this afternoon on the Schuylkill river, when the eight of Yale University and the University of Pennsylvania eight will row against each other in a mile and a half race.

Interest in the contest is unusually keen among college men and outmen in general owing to the fact that for the first time in the history of American rowing a university crew sitting in an English rigged shell will contend against a crew using the regular American style boat. The Yale men have brought their foreign rigged shell in Philadelphia with them, and a great crowd will line the banks of the Schuylkill to see them row.

In addition to the variety contest the second crews of the two colleges will have a race. It will precede the main event of the day.

AUTO VICTIM GETS EVEN

Strips Judge's Home of Furniture and Wearing Apparel.

Atlanta, Ga., April 10.—On an attachment secured by a negro the home of Judge W. B. Sheppard, Federal Judge of the Northern district of Florida, was stripped of most of its furniture and family wearing apparel.

Judge Sheppard's automobile recently injured a negro. The Judge ordered to pay the negro $50 in settlement for his injuries, but the negro demanded $100 and the writ of attachment followed.

One of the negro's attorneys, accompanied by a constable, went to the Judge's home when Mrs. Sheppard was alone with the children. They took all the furniture except beds, the clothing of all the members of the family, the trunk and even the children's toys. Mrs. Sheppard's protests were vain.

YALE AND PENN CREWS IN TRAINING; SCENE ON SCHUYLKILL RIVER COURSE

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—The Yale and Pennsylvania crews have been training hard on the Schuylkill river for several days in preparation for their race today. The race will be the first between crews of these two universities in 20 years. It is probable that in addition to the first eight, the second crews also will meet. The Yale varsity crew probably will be boated as follows: Stroke, Captain Howe; No. 7, Miller; No. 6, Hyde; No. 5, Woodell; No. 4, Wallis; No. 3, Brumard; No. 2, Glenn; bow, Rice, coxswain, Cass. The Quakers are now rowing in the following order: Hogland, bow; Hogden, Shelling; Drift, Inger, Walton, Shoemaker, captain; Braddock, Ballard, stroke; Westcott.

Polly of the CIRCUS

BY MARGARET MAYO

COPYRIGHT, 1936, BY DODD, MEAD AND COMPANY

CHAPTER VIII

WHEN Polly understood that Toby was actually gone it seemed to her that she could never be happy again. She had been too young to realize the inevitability of death when it came to her mother, and now she could scarcely believe that Toby would never, never come back to her. She felt that she must be able to drag him back; that she could not go on without him. She wanted to tell him how grateful she was for all his care of her. She thought of the thousand little things that she might have done for him; she longed to recall every impatient word to him. His gentle, reproachful eyes were always haunting her. "You must come back, Toby," she cried. "You must!"

It was only when body and mind had worn themselves out with yearning that a numbness at last crept over her, and out of this grew a gradual consciousness of things about her and a returning sense of her obligation to others. She tried to answer in her old, stammering way and to keep her mind upon what they were saying instead of letting it wander away to the past. Douglas and Mandy were overjoyed to see the color creeping back to her cheeks.

She joined the pastor again in his visits to the poor. The women of the town would often see them passing and would either whisper to each other, shrug their shoulders or lift their eyebrows with smiling insinuations, but Polly and the pastor were too much absorbed in each other to take much notice of what was going on about them.

They had not gone for their walk today because Mandy had needed Polly to help make ready for the social to be held in the Sunday school room tonight.

Early in the afternoon Polly had seen Douglas shut himself up in the study, and she was sure that he was writing, so when the village children stopped in on the way from school for Mandy's new made cookies she used her customary trick to get them away. "Tag, you're it!" she cried and then dashed out the back door, pursued by the laughing, screaming youngsters. Mandy followed the children to the porch and stood looking after them as the small little band scurried about the back yard, darted in and out among the trees, then up the side of the wooden hill, just beyond the church.

The leaves once more were red and yellow on the trees, but today the air was warm and the children were wearing their summer dresses. Polly's little girlish figure looked almost tall in comparison with the children about her. She wore a plain, simple gown of white, which Mandy had helped her to draw. It had been cut ankle length for Polly, but now, as she stepped out, it was now a skirt. Her serious, old-fashioned manner, her serious eyes and her trick of knotting her heavy, brown hair low on her neck made her seem older.

Mandy waited until the children had disappeared over the hill, then began bustling about, looking for the starch-bender which Hasty had left under the vines of the porch. It had been a busy day at the personage. A social always meant perturbation for Mandy. She called sharply to Hasty as he came drawn.

"You're always 'tained when dar' any work a-goin' on," Mandy snapped at him.

"What's Miss Polly?" Hasty asked, ignoring Mandy's reference to work.

"Nebber yo' mind 'bout Miss Polly. She don't want yo'. Jes' yo' done set in that starch-bender into de Sunday school room."

"But I wants her," Hasty insisted. "It's been on very 'fular business what she ought to know 'bout."

"Business?" she repeated. "What kind ob business?"

SEE HAD BEEN TAUGHT BY TOBY NEVER TO WHIMPER.

down the path which made a short cut to the village.

"So's youse back, is yo'?" she asked sarcastically.

"Sure 't's back," answered Hasty good naturedly as he sank upon an empty box that had held some things for the social and pretended to wipe the perspiration from his forehead.

"Massa John done send yo' to de postoffice two hours ago," said Mandy as she took the letters and papers from his hands. "Two minutes is plenty ob time for any nigger to do de job."

"I done been detained," Hasty said.

"I got to fix de Sunday school room," said Hasty as he perceived her growing curiosity.

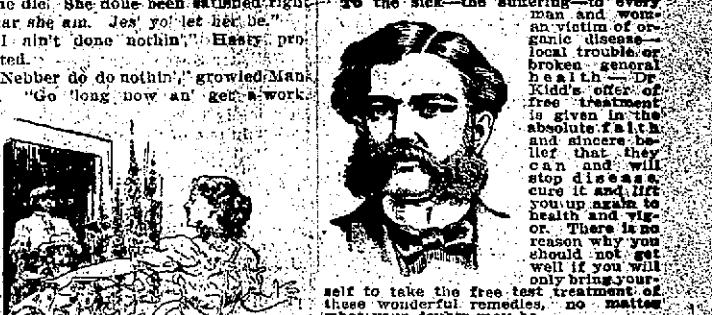

"You come heeb, pluggin'!" Mandy called, determined that none of the village dogs should escape her. "Out wid it!"

"Well, it's 'bout de church," Hasty answered, seating himself again on the box. "Der's showin' in Wakenheld to-night, an' next month der's comin' here."

"Dat same church what Miss Polly used to be wid?" Mandy's eyes grew large with curiosity.

I want the Doubters

I want to give them the proof—the evidence and the glory of their own cures. I have put my life into this work—I hold the cure of thousands of diseases—not some better—but thousands of desperate sufferers, hearty and strong and big and well; and their letters are in my hands to prove every word I say. Rheumatism, kidney trouble, all diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels, catarrh, diseases of the bladder and prostate gland, nervousness, all forms of blood, weak lungs, asthma, bronchitis and chronic coughs, all skin diseases, scurvy, impure blood, partial paralysis, piles, heart disease, lumbago, aneurism, obesity, gout, general debility are cured to remain and continue cured.

No matter how you are afflicted, send me your name and address and I will have the remedy sent to you and given into your own hands free, paid for by me and delivered at my own cost.

They have cured thousands of cases—nearly every disease—and they do cure and there is no reason why they should not cure you—make you well—and bring you back to health and joy of living. You let me do this for you—will you let me prove it—show you the evidence? Are you willing to trust a master physician who not only makes this offer, but publishes the fact that he sends the test and proof of his remedies about a penny of cost to any one who asks himself?

Send your name, your Post Office address and a description of your condition, and I will do my utmost to satisfy your doubts. You have no more to pay. These remedies will save your life and make it all that nature meant to make it. Let me make you well.

"Tag, you're it!" Polly cried as she touched the widow's apron bared of spring on the sleeve. There was much smiling when Willie passed the tag to little Jennie, the smallest girl in the crowd.

"I won't play no more," she sobbed. "I can't always be it."

To comfort her Polly began to sing an old circus song that the children had learned to love, and the little ones huddled about her in a circle to hear of the wonderful "Van Amburg" who used to "walk right into the top of his cage and put his head in the lion's mouth." The children were in a state of nerves that did credit to Polly as an entertainer when Hasty broke in upon the song.

"When yo' get a minute I want ter tell yo' somethin'."

"I have one right now." And turning to the eager mixer at her side, Polly told them to run along into the grove and that she'd come pretty soon to teach them a new game.

The youngsters went screaming and laughing on their way, and she breathed a sigh of relief as she threw herself down on the rustic seat that encircled the elm tree.

"What is it, Hasty?" she asked, suspecting that he was in trouble with Mandy.

"It's 'bout de circus," Hasty informed her bluntly.

"The circus?" She rose and crossed to him quickly.

"It's in Wakenheld—an' nex' month it's a-comin' here."

"Here?" Polly gasped.

"I thought yo' want ter know," said Hasty, a little surprised at her lack of enthusiasm.

"Yes, of course," she turned away, returning sense of her obligation to others. "Don't youse tell Mandy I been talkin' 'bout dat circus," said Hasty uneasily. He was beginning to fear that he had made a mistake, but before Polly could answer Mandy came out of the house, carrying baskets of food, which Hasty was to take to the Sunday school room. She looked at the girl's troubled face and drooping shoulders in surprise.

"What make yo' look so serious?"

"Just thinking," said Polly absently.

"My! Don't yo' look fine in your new dress!" She was anxious to draw the girl out of her reverie.

"Do you like it?" Polly asked eagerly, forgetting her depression of a moment before. "Do you think Mr. John will like it?"

"Massa John? Mercy me! He nebber takes no notice ob dem 'tins. I done got a bran' spakin' now all'ing to some time, an' do you think he ebber seed it? I wuz axin' you 'bout it, 'well be be comin' soon' like Mudder Eye for all dat man know." Polly looked disappointed. "But under folks sees," Mandy continued comfortingly. "An' yo' certainly look mighty fine. Why, youse just as good now as yo' was afore yo' got hurted."

"Yes, I'm well now and able to work again." There was no enthusiasm in her tone, for Hasty's news had made her realize how unwelcome the old life would be to her.

"Work! Yo' does work all de time. My stars, de help yo' is to Massa John!"

"Do you think so? Do I help him? Do I?"

"Of course yo' does. Yo' tells him 'tins to do in Sunday school what the children like, an' yo' learns him to laugh an' 'joy himself an' a lot of 'tins what nobody else could a-learn 'em."

"You mustn't say 'learned him,'" Polly corrected. "You must say 'taught him.' You can't 'learn' anybody anything. You can only 'teach' them."

"Lordy sakes! I didn't know dat." She rolled her large eyes at her young instructor and saw that Polly looked very serious. "She's gwin' to leave anudder one a dem 'tins ap'le," thought Mandy, and she made ready to protest.

"See here, ain't yo' nebber?"

"She was interrupted by a quick 'Haste yo' never' from Polly.

"It done make no difference what yo' say," Mandy snapped. "Yo' does as folks understands yo'." She always grew restive under these protests, but Polly's firm controlled manner generally conquered.

"Oh, yes, it does," answered Polly. "I used to think it didn't, but it does. You have to say things in a certain way or folks look down on yo'."

"I'm satisfied de way I be," declared Mandy as she plumped herself down on the garden bench and began to fidget with resentment.

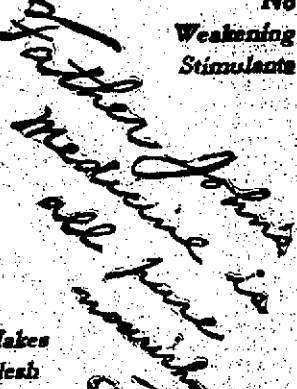

"The way I am," Polly persisted sweetly.

"See here, chile, is dat why yo' been settin' up nights an' keepin' de light burnin'?"

"You mustn't say 'settin' up.' You must say 'sitting up.' Heeb, see!"

"So do I," interrupted Mandy. "I done it now." For a time she preserved an injured silence, then turned upon Polly vehemently. "If I had to think ob all dat 'ere foolishness obertins I opine my meeb, I'd have been tongue tied afore I was born."

INDIAN POLICY STILL IN DOUBT.

Much Speculation as to What Course Will Be Pursued
by Taft.

TARIFF DRAMA INTERESTING

Two Big Men Pitted Against Each Other in the War Over Making The
New Schedule—Both of Them Are Highly Entertaining.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Just what President Taft's policy in the Indian office will be is a matter of much conjecture among those who have been following the ups and downs of that bureau for the past six years. Commissioner Luop, who is a thoroughgoing Roosevelt man and under whose administration the office was taken away from the politicians and placed on a business basis, has expressed a longing to be away from the cares of political life.

Far from it, his determination, he turned in his resignation to President Taft March 6, when Taft became Secretary of the Interior. It is understood that Luop would be willing to serve for a while if it were necessary to ensure the perpetuity of the reforms that he has instituted and that his resignation was turned in in order to collect the administration of any possible enhancement in case it was desired to make a change. President Taft immediately returned Luop's resignation with the request that it be withheld "for a while."

Whether "for a while" means indefinitely, is not known. Meanwhile, the President is being harassed with a succession of suggestions for the office.

The recent settlement out of court by the Union Pacific Railroad Company of the "Horse Thief Canyon" case in which the railroad abandoned its defense of the Government's suit, recovered the land and paid trespass damages at the rate of $1000 a ton for the coal mined, now set a standard for the value of the lands in controversy, and it is expected by the courts as a settlement, the government will regain possession of lands worth over a half billion dollars. This land will then be thrown open to settlement under the coal land laws, and it is expected that much of the mineral wealth now held by a few corporations will be redistributed to small farmers and individual settlers.

The General Land office here is busier than it has ever been before. The appropriation by Congress of $1,000,000 for the detection and prevention of frauds upon the public domain, which was made immediately available, has opened the land office into a hub of activity.

H. H. Schwartz, chief of the field force of the general land office is organizing his men by adding 200 trained investigators and these will be started out at once to take up work in the Northwest. A great number of cases involving coal lands that are attacked by the government to have been fraudulently acquired, are in the investigation stage. Many of these cases are old ones and have been on the docket some of them for years. "Dumny entries," illegal fencing and conspiracy cases that have been hanging fire for several years, will be presented to the Federal Courts this winter for settlement.

There are two leading performers in the drama, or farce—take your choice—of revising the tariff, which is now holding the boards in the House of Representatives. Of course, Sen. Elihu B. Sargent, of New York, author of the bill and Republican floor leader, will make the most of the spot light. But just the same, Champ Clark, of Missouri, the minority leader, will make the most of the spot light. He has a profound knowledge of the tariff, talks intelligently about its technicalities, its ramifications and its application; knows finance and governmental administration from A to Z, and, what is more, can tell what he knows in a clear, concise-to-the-point manner.

Nothing really ever disturbs Sargent or confuses him. He tries to make believe that rapid-fire questioning upsets him, but it never really does. When he made his famous two-day speech in the House at the opening of the special session, explaining the tariff bill, he had eight solid hours of nearly continuous sitting at the hands of the whole House—an almost steady stream of questions from members, ranging from queries as to what aid valorem meant to how many pounds of tea are used each year in the United States, in Germany, in England, and elsewhere. And not a single question was unanswered. If he evaded one, it was done so skillfully that the questioner seemed satisfied.

Payne has served on the Ways and Means Committee just 20 years. He has been a member of Congress for 22 years, and has seen the fraying and passage of two previous tariff measures. He is the trusted lieutenant of the Speaker, and a most vigorous and consistent always-on-the-job supporter of the House machine. He never waffles—he holds along with a sort of waddle. He is big enough around the middle to wear President Taft's trousers, but would be clean lost in his coat.

Champ Clark's principal characteristic is his voice. When properly harassed and working perfectly, Clark has a foghorn "beat to a frazzle." He is fond of homely phrases; like Uncle Joe Cannon, he often refers to the Bible for an illustrative incident, or a precept, and has a goodly fund of anecdotes. There is just a faint suggestion of the South in his speech.

"Milder Speeches," says Clark, as he rises majestically, removes his spectacles slowly, swings them around carefully in one hand, and sticks the other in one of those old-style horizontal trousers pockets that he affects. Clark discards the spectacles, and cuts little circles in the atmosphere with the free hand; pounds it on the desk, or else tucks it away in the other capacious trousers pocket. Sometimes he leans forward and sticks his head out, pugnaciously. He has one peculiar mannerism. When he stops to collect his thoughts he purses up his mouth, and then, suddenly "puffs" vigorously. When he is real excited the puff sounds like a locomotive exhaust. He is tall and well-fed in appearance. He always wears one of the old-style "open-front" collars, and has a penchant for red neckties. He is smooth-faced, with gray hair pretty thickly scattered over his head, except in one spot where the pink of his youth shows.

Clark moves slowly with dignity as he tells all his big things. He has a curious little way of poking his shoulders and bent forward as he takes each step, and always begins his speeches negligently—muzzes his opening words up so that hardly anyone knows what he is saying. Having thus flurried over "Mr. Speaker" and his opening phrases, however, there is no one in the chamber that can possibly plead inability to hear. He has a monstrous rumbling voice that penetrates.

Clark, too, like Payne, has been in Congress a long time. His service began in 1896 and he has been returning every year regularly.

"If ex-Senator Chandler will only show us now, the fatted calf may be killed, for all the prodigals will have returned," commented a Congressman at the White House as the long form of Senator Stone disappeared in the direction of President Taft's inner office.

"It does beat the Dutch," continued the Representative, "how all the old members of the Roosevelt in Bad Club—the Undesirables, the Misfits, the outcasts, the misfits, the misfits, and the shorts and tighties—are all struggling up to the new President. It was only a few days ago that we saw Senator Bailey and General Miles come up here to pay their respects to the Executive. Every time they paid their respects to President Roosevelt they did it with brickbats, as a rule, every time they did it, they got a bit with the Big Stick in return."

"There was Representative McCall, of Massachusetts, who declined a college presidency just so that he could stay in Congress to watch the Roosevelt policies. He was up here two or three days ago, billing and cooing with the new head of the Administration. So was Senator Dick, of Ohio. One of the last things Roosevelt did before quitting the Presidency was to hand Dick an assortment of jobs in the way of appointments that were calculated to make all the Dickites in the Buckeye State sick with desire."

"Senator Hale, of Maine, whom Mr. Roosevelt delighted to make with a sharp end of the Big Stick, and who, on the other hand, always acted tickled beyond measure when he could thwart the Rough Rider, was one of the callers at the White House last week and had a perfect love feast in the sanctum sanctorum. As near as I can make out, the President has won about all Roosevelt's old friends over to him and has made an excellent start into the ranks of his enemies. He has been in office now a whole month and has not, to my knowledge, called anyone a liar."

Sargent is a large, rotund party. He probably weighs the scale at 275 pounds. A plentiful share of white hair clings to his massive head, and a white mustache just touches his white eyebrows on a quizzical, kindly face.

It is a study to watch Payne's face while he is speaking. His eyes twinkle and shine, and funny little wrinkles play about his mouth when he takes a sarcastic shot at the minority side—which is often. He has a profound knowledge of the tariff, talks intelligently about its technicalities, its ramifications and its application; knows finance and governmental administration from A to Z, and, what is more, can tell what he knows in a clear, concise-to-the-point manner.

Nothing really ever disturbs Payne or confuses him. He tries to make believe that rapid-fire questioning upsets him, but it never really does. ### POTOMAC SPEEDWAY, WHERE ESPLANADE PLANNED BY MRS. TAFT IS SITUATED

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Work is progressing rapidly on the esplanade which is being developed on the "made ground" formerly the marshy Potomac flats—the peninsula extending into the river opposite Washington monument. Credit is given to Mrs. Taft for the idea of transforming this spot into a gathering place for the people, where they can be entertained with music, and amuse themselves with games. The place, formerly a bog, has been filled until now the ground is high and dry, and the peninsula is bordered with a beautiful drive.

CURED ITCHING PAINFUL HUMOR

Which had Spread Over Face, Body and Arms—Swellings were as Large as a Dollar—When they Broke, Sores would Not Heal—Suffered 3 Years.

MADE SOUND AND WELL BY 3 SETS OF CUTICURA

"My trouble began about three years ago with little black swellings scattered over my face and neck. They would disappear, but they would leave little black scars that would not heal. I could not keep from scratching them. Larger swellings would appear in the same places and they were so painful I could hardly bear it. My clothes would stick to the sores. The first doctor I went to said the disease was scrofula, but he could not cure it and spread. By this time it was all over my arms and the upper part of my body. In his swelling as large as a dollar. It was so painful that I could not bear it on my back at night. The second doctor pronounced my disease an inflammation of the lymphatic glands. He stopped the swellings, but when they would break the places would not heal. He tried everything that he could but to no effect. He said I might be cured but it would take a long time. I bought a set of the Cuticura Remedies and used them according to directions and in less than a week some of the places were nearly well. I continued with the Cuticura Remedies until I had used three sets, and now I am sound and well. The disease lasted three years from the time it commenced until I was cured. Before Christmas something broke out on my seven-year-old brother's hands in the form of large sores. I tried everything I could think of but to no effect until I happened to think of Cuticura and one application cured him. Also, not long ago my sister got a bad burn on her ankle. I have been using Cuticura on that and it gave her scarcely any trouble. O. L. Wilson, Payson, Tenn., Feb. 8, 1908."
